

The New Newark Symphony Hall

Newark Symphony Hall, built in 1925, is one of New Jersey's most valuable assets. Its large audience capacity, the beauty of its interior, and its superb acoustics make it irreplaceable as a facility for the performance of dance, theater and music. Newark Symphony Hall is the home of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, the New Jersey State Opera and the Theater of Universal Images. Other constituents include the New Jersey Ballet, the Garden State Ballet, the Newark Boys' Chorus and Newark Community School of the Arts.

The Newark Symphony Hall (NSH) — Student Series was started in 1964 and was one of the pioneer programs in daytime concerts for the young people of elementary and high school age in New Jersey. The Newark Symphony Hall 1982-1983 season features a host of educational and cultural programs for the school age population. Our most recent addition to the Student Series is Dancetime for Young People, a spring and fall festival of performances by professional dance companies for students in grades 4 through 12.

Newark Symphony Hall has throughout its history been the scene for a wide variety of events. Our objective is to maintain a balance compatible with our role as a major performing arts center. Programming is as diverse as the populations we serve, so that not only classical and popular events are presented, but school and community programs as well.
